A Collaboration of Executive Guild Members:

NexGen Services and BSSi2

When Robertshaw Controls decided to move from its corporate office in Carol Stream, IL to a new facility in Itasca, it was decided that the time was also right to update their phone system to a more modern option. The system at the Carol Stream office was an older, traditional phone system with aging technology, limited capabilities, and few features. The transition from the old office to the new one was the perfect time to take advantage of the additional features and benefits that a VoIP system would give. After researching many options, they chose a state-of-the-art Allworx VoIP phone system with 200 phones. Jack Bush's company, NexGen Services, was selected to install the system and design and install their data network supporting 400 servers, computers, printers wireless, video, security, and more.

Critical to the success of the move was the relocation of the company's data center servers and server cabinets. When Jack was asked if he knew of a reliable firm to accomplish this task, he immediately recommended Scott Bernstein's company, BSSi2. Having worked with Scott in the past, Jack was well aware of Scott's expertise and dependability. Scott and his crew were able to accomplish the move over a weekend so that Robertshaw Controls could maintain operations without disruption to the business or to its clients. After the move, Scott and his team were on site to assist employees.

In the spirit of the Guild's motto: "Building Business through Relationships", the Robertshaw Controls undertaking was a perfect example of collaboration between Executive Guild members.
